'Go get your own oil from Hormuz'

All of those countries that can't get jet fuel because of the Strait of Hormuz, like the United Kingdom, which refused to get involved in the decapitation of Iran, I have a suggestion for you: Number 1, buy from the US, we have plenty, and Number 2, build up some delayed courage, go to the Strait, and just TAKE IT.

—Donald Trump, US President

WASHINGTON

President Donald Trump on Tuesday told the countries that did not help in the US-Israeli strikes on Iran to either buy American oil or go to the Strait of Hormuz and "just TAKE it."

Trump specifically mentioned Britain and France as unhelpful in the month-long war in a post on Truth Social. The war has roiled global markets, driven up energy prices and seen Iran effectively close oil tanker traffic through the Strait.

"All of those countries that can't get jet fuel because of the Strait of Hormuz, like the United Kingdom, which refused to get involved in the decapitation of Iran, I have a suggestion for you: Number 1, buy from the US, we have plenty, and Number 2, build up some delayed courage, go to the Strait, and just TAKE IT," Trump said in a Truth Social post. "You'll have to start learning how to fight for yourself, the U.S.A. won't be there to help you anymore, just like you weren't there for us. "The hard part is done. Go get your own oil!" He also criticised France for not letting planes carrying military supplies to Israel fly over French territory.

IRAN SPARKS US 'BIG TECH' PANIC

'Expect destruction': IRGC says it will start bombing US tech giants in West Asia starting April 1

TEHRAN

The Iranian Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps (IRGC) has issued a stern warning to 18 US technology companies, singling out Microsoft, Apple, Google, Intel, and Boeing, among others, as "legitimate targets" in response to operations carried out by the US and Israel.

The IRGC said in a Tuesday statement that these companies should expect Iran's reprisal attacks starting at 20:00 Iran time on April 1, adding that their offices in the region will be "annihilated."

The list released by the IRGC included big tech names such as Apple, Google, Meta, and Microsoft, as well as major hardware suppliers like HP, Intel, IBM, and Cisco.

IRAN WAR DAY 33

The targets

Microsoft, Google, Apple, Intel, IBM, Tesla, Boeing, Dell Technologies, HP, Cisco, Oracle, Meta, JPMorgan Chase, and General Electric among others

Other major brands included Tesla, Nvidia, Oracle, JP Morgan, and Boeing.

The IRGC described those companies as espionage entities associated with the warmongering government of the United States, saying their artificial intelligence (AI) and internet communication technology (ICT) services have been the main elements in designing terror operations and tracing assassination targets by the US and Israel inside Iran.

It stated that the US government and its Israeli allies had ignored Iran's repeated calls to stop terror operations in the country and had carried out a new targeted terror attack earlier on Tuesday, killing a number of Iranian citizens.

"In response to this terrorist operation, henceforth, the main institutions involved in terrorist activities will be considered legitimate targets," the IRGC said.

"We advise employees of these institutions to immediately leave their workplaces to protect their lives. Residents within a one-kilometer radius of these terrorist companies across all countries in the region are also urged to evacuate and move to safe locations."

Dozens of senior Iranian political and military officials and their family members have been assassinated in the ongoing US-Israeli aggression against Iran that began in late February.

Iran has vowed to avenge the assassinations by targeting elements that have been influential in the attacks.

UK sends more troops to Mideast to defend Gulf allies

LONDON: The UK is set to deploy extra troops to the Middle East in an effort to bolster defences for UK allies facing Iranian attacks. On a trip to Gulf nations, defence secretary John Healey said additional air defence teams and systems have arrived in Bahrain and Kuwait, and outlined plans to deploy an air defence missile system in Saudi Arabia and extend UK Typhoon jets' action in Qatar – despite the prime minister's repeated insistence that the UK will not be dragged into the wider war. News of the bolstered defence capabilities comes just hours after Trump warned Sir Keir Starmer and other allies that the "US won't be there to help you any more, just like you weren't there for us", after they refused to join US strikes on Iran.

China, Pak proposes 5-point peace plan

LAHORE

China and Pakistan on Tuesday jointly unveiled a 5-point proposal aimed at restoring peace and stability in the Gulf and the wider West Asia region, calling for an immediate cessation of hostilities and a renewed push for diplomacy.

The proposal was put forward during talks in Beijing between Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi and Pakistan's Deputy Prime Minister and Foreign Minister Mohammad Ishaq Dar, as tensions continue to escalate across the region.

In a joint statement, China and Pakistan outlined a five-point framework centred on de-escalation, dialogue, and adherence to international law.

What are those 5 points

1. Immediate cessation of hostilities
2. Start of peace talks as soon as possible
3. Security of nonmilitary targets
4. Security of shipping lanes
5. Primacy of the United Nations Charter

The joint initiative comes amid growing global concern over the potential for wider conflict in the Gulf and West Asia, with disruptions to energy supplies and maritime trade routes already raising economic and security alarms.

FIFA's Infantino: Iran will play in World Cup 2026

ANTALYA

In a massive development surrounding Iran's participation at the forthcoming FIFA World Cup 2026 in North America, Gianni Infantino, the apex body's president, confirmed the war-ridden country's involvement amid raging conflict with the tournament's co-hosts, the US and Israel, in West Asia. "I've seen the team, I've spoken to the players and the coach, so everything is fine," added Infantino, The US, Canada and Mexico will host the 48-team tournament starting June 11. Horror in West Bank as Israel approves hanging Palestinian prisoners

JERUSALEM

Hundreds of protesters took to the streets across the occupied Palestinian territories on Tuesday after Israel's parliament passed a law making death penalty by hanging the default punishment for Palestinian prisoners charged with killing Israelis. The law doesn't prescribe similar punishment to Israeli settlers convicted of killing Palestinians.

Palestinians, young and old, held sit-ins and marches in the Israeli-occupied West Bank, the territory where the new law is most sweeping.

West Bank military courts, which try only Palestinians has been accused of bias towards the Israeli military, which conducts frequent raids and detains Palestinians from the occupied territories.

The bill, which makes death penalty the default punishment for Palestinians charged with killing or plotting an attack against Israelis, passed its final vote in the Israeli parliament late Monday, to cheers and applause. Israel's far right minister of national security, Itamar Ben-Gvir, who spearheaded the push for the legislation, described the law as long overdue and a sign of strength and national pride. The law is set to take effect in 30 days but its implementation could be delayed by pending court proceedings at Israel's highest tribunal.

The law extends also to Israeli courts, giving them the option of imposing the death penalty on Israeli citizens convicted of nationalistic murder — language that legal experts say effectively confines those who can be sentenced to death to Palestinian citizens of Israel and excludes Jewish citizens.

KOLKATA

Indian tennis legend Leander Paes on Tuesday joined the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) ahead of the 2026 West Bengal assembly elections, marking a significant political shift from his earlier association with the Trinamool Congress.

He joined the BJP in the presence of Union Minister Kiren Rijiju.

The tennis star had recently met BJP chief Nitin Nabin in Kolkata, setting off speculation about him joining the party.

"Leander Paes' entry into the BJP family today is historic. Prime Minister Narendra Modi has championed sports and athletes over the past 12 years," said Kiren Rijiju.

Paes had joined the Trinamool Congress in 2021 and campaigned for the party during the Goa elections in 2022. He did not contest the elections.

This shift reflects both a personal repositioning and a potentially calculated electoral strategy, as Paes hails from Kolkata and carries strong name recognition.

West Bengal will go to polls in two-phases on April 23 and 29.

NHAI toll up on major corridors from April 1

The hike ranges from Rs 5 to Rs 15; routes include Bengaluru-Chennai and Bengaluru-Mysuru expressways; hike affects various vehicle types, with cars now costing approximately Rs 150 for a single trip on the Bengaluru-Chennai route

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) has marginally increased toll on major corridors effective April 1, as per a notification.

The revised rates apply to Bengaluru-Chennai expressway (Hoskote–KGF stretch within Karnataka), Satellite Town Ring Road (STRR) between Dabaspet and Hoskote, Bengaluru–Mysuru access-controlled highway, Kanakapura Road, Ballari Road leading to Kempegowda International Airport (KIA) and other NHs.At Sadahalli toll gate on Kempegowda International Airport Road (Ballari Road), the single-trip fee for cars remains unchanged at Rs 120, but the return journey fee has been increased from Rs 180 to Rs 185. The monthly pass for 50 trips now costs Rs 4,070.

For Light Commercial Vehicles (LCV/LGV) and mini-buses, toll has gone up by Rs 5, with single-trip charges rising from Rs 185 to Rs 190 and return fares from Rs 275 to Rs 280. Monthly passes are priced at Rs 6,255. Truck and bus operators will see a hike of Rs 5 to Rs 15. Single-trip charges have been revised to Rs 375, while return journeys will now cost Rs 565. The monthly pass vstands at Rs 12,575.

The increase is likely to have a cascading impact on bus fares, particularly for services operated by BMTC, which runs extensive routes to the airport and surrounding towns such as Devanahalli and Chikkaballapur. Air passengers may end up paying for Vayu Vajra services. On STRR corridor, toll for cars has been increased by Rs 5. At the Nelluru-Devanahalli plaza, single-trip charges stand at Rs 75, with return journeys costing Rs 125 and monthly passes at Rs 2,805. At Hulikunte, cars will pay Rs 110 for a single trip and Rs 160 for return journeys, with monthly passes priced at Rs 3,595.

NHAI has revised toll on the 72km operational stretch of Bengaluru-Chennai expressway between Hoskote and KGF (Bethamangala). Notably, toll rates on this stretch have seen fluctuations. After initially charging expressway-level tolls when the stretch opened last year, NHAI reduced rates in Feb 2026, citing incomplete sections. Class 1 age rule row continues despite govt's 60-day relaxation

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

After the government announced a 60-day relaxation for admissions to kindergarten and class 1, some parents are now seeking further relaxation.

They want the government to make five and a half years the cut-off for admission to class 1, as was done last year. In July 2022, the government had issued an order fixing the age of admission at six years. However, this was not implemented following protests from parents.

This year too, parents approached the school education department against the rule, forcing the government to announce a two-month waiver. Last Thursday, the govt relaxed the age criteria for class 1 by 60 days for the academic year 2026-27. Minister for School Education Madhu Bangarappa said the relaxation will be applicable to LKG and UKG admissions too. Thus, this year, a child who is 5 years and 10 months old as of June 1 is eligible for admission.

The new rule applies to all govt, aided, and private schools across curricula: state, CBSE, ICSE, and international.However, another group of parents is unhappy. It is unfair on our children as they have made a relaxation to benefit only a few. So our children are being forced to repeat kindergarten. This will cause emotional stress on them, including loss of confidence.

Additionally, it is a financial burden on us, said a parent. Last year, the government said it would never relax the rule again. But it has announced a 60-day relaxation this time. This helps only half the parents. said BV Yogananda, President of Karnataka Private School and Colleges Parents' Association. Moreover, the government should immediately release the new regulation for kindergarten admissions so that this does not repeat, he added.

Yielding to the demand of private schools, the government has amended its rules, reducing the mandatory land lease requirement from 30 years to 15 for running educational institutions. In a gazetted notification, the government stated that every private body desiring to establish an educational institution imparting pre-primary, primary, secondary, and higher secondary education should own or have on lease land registered for a minimum period of 15 years. The institutions should submit RTC / e-khata / khata document as proof of land ownership. The government has listened to our request to change the lease period. Meanwhile, there are some other issues that need clarity. We will be raising them with the govt soon, said D Shashi Kumar, Secretary of the Association of Primary and Secondary Schools of Karnataka.

Charges for change in governing council or location

The government has also decided to charge schools for change in the governing council or location. For change in location, the fees are: Rs 50,000 for primary school, ₹75,000 for secondary school, and ₹1 lakh for higher secondary school. The fee for change in governing council is ₹1 lakh, ₹1.5 lakh, and ₹2 lakh, respectively.

AI may be used to park cars and trace violators in B'luru

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

An AI-enabled paid parking system is proposed to be rolled out in key areas of the city, with Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) preparing to implement the model in Jayanagar, HSR Layout, Cubbon Park and Koramangala.

The system, designed to regulate unorganised roadside parking and ease congestion, will be fully digital and app-based. Motorists will be required to park only in designated slots identified through a mobile application, with real-time monitoring enabled through artificial intelligence. Vehicles parked outside authorised zones will be flagged automatically, triggering alerts to towing personnel and inviting penalties, said a senior GBA official.

According to GBA officials, a Chennai-based private firm will handle operations, including mapping parking spaces, integrating payment systems and managing enforcement. This is a technology-driven intervention aimed at bringing discipline to on-street parking. AI will help us monitor violations in real time and ensure compliance without manual intervention, a senior GBA official said.The authority has plans to impose parking fees of Rs 30 per hour for two-wheelers and Rs 50 per hour for cars, with payments to be made through QR codes and the app.

Cities across the world have adopted structured paid parking to manage limited road space efficiently. Bengaluru, as a leading IT city, must move in that direction, another GBA official noted. However, the proposal has raised concerns among traffic police and local stakeholders. Police officials have objected to the inclusion of residential streets, cautioning that charging fees in such areas, many of which are already notified as parking zones, could lead to public resistance. A calibrated approach is needed, especially in residential neighbourhoods, a senior traffic official said. The proposal comes as GBA is making preparations for civic elections.

5 SWR trains get modern coaches for more comfortable journey

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Gone are the days of the old iconic beige and brown-coloured coaches linked to some of the city's short-distance trains. South Western Railway (SWR) has converted five short-distance trains to modern Linke Hofmann Busch (LHB) rakes, which already hit the tracks this week.

Three Mysuru-bound trains, one to Dharwad and intercity express to Talguppa, the nearest railway station to Jog Falls, have got new coaches for a more comfortable journey.LHB coaches are modern, stainless steel passenger coaches used by Indian Railways.

The air-conditioned version of these coaches was initially imported from Germany for Shatabdi Express trains, following which they were manufactured in India. Designed for speeds up to 160–180 kmph, enhanced safety and passenger comfort, these coaches have improved accessories like charging points, tray tables and modular cabin switches.

The air-conditioned LHB coaches have modular window blinds along with sliding window shutters instead of the old clip-based window shutters. However, modernisation has reduced the total number of coaches from 21 to 19. The current arrangement features 11 general coaches, 5 reserved second-sitting coaches and an A/C chair car.

Passengers have, however, expressed concerns about the design of second-sitting coaches, which feature chairs with limited incline.

Union minister of State for Railways V Somanna said a new Memu train between Bengaluru and Arsikere via Tumakuru has been approved. "This train will benefit students, daily-wage workers, employees, farmers and traders. The service will improve connectivity, support the local economy and daily commuters, he said.

Woman held for trying to smuggle ganja, beedi to jail

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

While efforts are being made to curb illegal activities in the prison, illegal activities are continuing unabated. Despite the strict measures taken by the jail warders, efforts are continuing to supply drugs, ganja, mobile phones, etc.

Ritika, who hails from Assam, was married for the second time to Farhan Khan from Hennur. Khan was jailed a few months ago for his involvement in an extortion case.

Ritika had come to see her husband Farhan on March 26 after getting an interview pass. Ritika's behavior at the entrance of the jail was suspicious. Therefore, the female staff took Ritika into custody and searched her. During this time, Ritika was found to be hiding three SIM cards, 27 grams of methamphetamine drug powder, bidi and tobacco products in her private parts. Second tariff hike in weeks set to hit commercial, industrial users

Commercial and industrial consumers in Karnataka are staring at a double whammy on their monthly electricity bills, with Karnataka Electricity Regulatory Commission (KERC) likely to revise the current tariff anywhere between 35 and 45 paise per unit.

The fresh hike, according to sources in the energy sector, will kick in from April even as consumers continue to bear the burden of a recent revision by KERC, ranging from 10 to 95 paise for various categories, in the first week of March to help ESCOMs overcome revenue shortfall.

Even though the likely revision is unlikely to pinch domestic consumers due to government's Gruha Jyothi scheme, the hike is set to burn a hole in the pockets for those not covered by it. The latest hike is expected to be rolled out after assembly bypolls scheduled for April 9. KERC, after holding public consultations over the past few weeks, is likely to allow revision of 35-45 paise per unit, as per sources.

GOVT UPS VIP QUOTA

IPL ticket row resolved, MLAs to get 3 tickets

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar said Legislators would be allotted three complimentary tickets each for Indian Premier League (IPL) matches and two for international cricket fixtures in the city, with an option to buy two additional tickets for international games.

Speaking to reporters at his Sadashivanagar residence, Shivakumar said the decision followed his meetings with officials of Karnataka State

Cricket Association, Royal Challengers Bengaluru (RCB), and DNA Networks to thrash out allocation of tickets for elected representatives.

He clarified that since tickets for the season-opening IPL match on Saturday between RCB and Sunrisers Hyderabad had already been sold, only two tickets could be provided to legislators. The matter is now closed. Those not interested in obtaining tickets can inform us in writing, there's no compulsion, the DCM added.

Responding to demands from some legislators for a higher quota, Shivakumar said it was not feasible. He further said in Rajasthan, Gujarat, Mumbai, Delhi, and Kolkata, nearly 50-60 percent of tickets are distributed among government officials and related entities. Compared to them, our intervention is minimal, he noted.

Earlier, Congress Legislator Vijayanand Kashappanavar had demanded four tickets for each MLA to watch IPL matches in Bengaluru. His statement that Legislators could not be queuing up like normal people, triggered a backlash on social media, with fans questioning VIP culture.

On demands for a dedicated gallery for legislators and ministers for IPL matches, Shivakumar ruled out any interference by the govt on the same.

Five Women Accused of Extorting ₹25 Lakh from Cinema Hall Owner

RAMANAGARA

A shocking case of extortion has come to light in Ramanagara, where a group of five women allegedly threatened and cheated a cinema hall owner of nearly ₹25 lakh. The victim, a 52-year-old man living alone, has filed a complaint with the police, prompting an investigation into the incident.

According to police sources, the victim is a resident of the Agrahara block in Ramanagara and has been living alone for the past seven years after separating from his wife. With no immediate family support—no parents or children—he is believed to have been targeted by the accused.

The complaint reveals that the incident began around six to seven months ago when a woman from the Kotipura area visited his cinema hall under the pretext of watching a movie. During her visit, she initiated a conversation with the theatre owner and expressed her desire to marry him. However, the man declined her proposal.Following this, the woman allegedly returned with two other women, gradually introducing more members into the scheme. Surge in Wild Elephant Sightings Alarms Residents in Kanakapura Taluk

Residents of Kanakapura taluk in Bengaluru South district were left startled after a herd of wild elephants was spotted moving through villages, raising fresh concerns over increasing human-wildlife encounters in the region.

In a recent development, a group of wild elephants was seen near Koggedoddi village in Kanakapura taluk, creating panic among local residents. The sighting has added to growing reports of increased elephant movement in parts of Bengaluru South district, indicating a possible rise in wildlife activity near human settlements.

Eyewitnesses reported that the herd was later seen advancing towards Eka Eki village, catching villagers off guard. The sudden appearance of the elephants caused widespread alarm, with people rushing out of their homes to alert others. Both members of the public and forest department staff reacted swiftly, raising loud cries and shouting in an attempt to drive the animals away from the residential areas.

Startled by the noise and human presence, the herd reportedly retreated from the spot and moved back towards forested areas. While no injuries or damage to property have been reported so far, the incident has heightened anxiety among villagers who fear further encounters in the coming days.

Forest officials believe that the elephants may have strayed from the nearby Sangama Wildlife Sanctuary in search of food and water. Such movements are not uncommon, especially during certain seasons when natural resources within forest areas become scarce, forcing wildlife to venture closer to human habitation.Authorities have urged residents to remain cautious and avoid approaching or provoking the animals. The forest department is said to be monitoring the situation closely and taking necessary measures to ensure both public safety and the protection of wildlife.

Bill to declare Amaravati AP's sole capital to be tabled in LS today

NEW DELHI

The Centre is set to introduce the Andhra Pradesh Reorganisation (Amendment) Bill, 2026, in the Lok Sabha on April 1 to declare Amaravati as the sole capital of the state.

The proposal aims to amend the 2014 Act by clearly stating that Amaravati will be the new capital of Andhra Pradesh.

According to the state government, the Bill will provide legal clarity on the capital issue and support the vision of the TDP-led NDA administration. The move follows the recent resolution passed by the Andhra Pradesh Assembly backing Amaravati as the single capital.

Chief Minister N Chandrababu Naidu had introduced the resolution, which was unanimously approved by the Assembly. The resolution was later sent to key authorities, including Parliament leaders and the Union Home Minister, seeking statutory recognition for Amaravati.

The original Andhra Pradesh Reorganisation Act, 2014, had allowed Hyderabad to serve as a common capital for both Telangana and Andhra Pradesh for up to ten years. After that period, Andhra Pradesh was required to establish its own capital.

Speaking on the development, Naidu reiterated that Amaravati will remain the permanent capital and said no changes will be made to this decision. He also outlined plans to develop Amaravati as a modern Blue-Green city with a focus on sustainability and advanced infrastructure.

The Chief Minister expressed confidence that the city will become one of the most livable in the country and a major driver of economic growth. He added that Amaravati is expected to take full shape as a developed capital by 2028, calling it a key foundation for the future progress of Andhra Pradesh.

Govt strategy ends Maoist insurgency after decades of conflict

'Data from the 1960s showed better income levels in Naxalbari compared to some non-affected areas, challenging claims that poverty alone caused the uprising'

NEW DELHI

The Centre has said a mix of strong security action and welfare measures helped end Maoist insurgency in India after decades. Union Home Minister Amit Shah told Parliament that the movement, which began in Naxalbari in 1967, was driven more by ideology than poverty.

He said data from the 1960s showed better income levels in Naxalbari compared to some non-affected areas, challenging claims that poverty alone caused the uprising. Inspired by Mao Zedong, the movement aimed to establish a "People's Democratic Republic" through armed struggle.

Over the years, the insurgency spread across several states, forming the "Red Corridor" and affecting crores of people. Shah said more than 20,000 people, including security personnel, lost their lives in the violence. He also claimed that insurgents collected large sums of money annually and disrupted development by targeting infrastructure and industries.

According to the government, most weapons used by Maoists were looted from police stations rather than imported. Frequent attacks, including raids on camps and prisons, added to the fear in affected regions.

The government said the situation changed after 2014 under Prime Minister Narendra Modi, with a policy combining strict action against militants and rehabilitation schemes. Surrendered cadres were given financial aid, housing, and support for education.

Officials said the number of affected districts has dropped sharply, with only a few areas now impacted. The government claims the insurgency has effectively ended as of March 31, 2026.

The Centre said its approach of strong enforcement along with development helped restore normalcy and strengthen democracy in previously affected regions.

Maha launches healthy village campaign

MUMBAI

The Maharashtra government will launch the 'My Village, Healthy Village' campaign from April 1 to improve healthcare services in rural areas and promote healthier lifestyles among citizens.

The initiative will be implemented under the guidance of Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis, along with Deputy Chief Ministers Eknath Shinde and Sunetra Pawar.

The campaign, led by Public Health Minister Prakash Abitkar and Minister of State Meghna Sakore Bordikar, aims to transform villages into healthier communities. Officials said the goal is to make this effort a people's movement with active public participation.

The campaign focuses on both treatment and prevention of diseases by promoting sanitation, safe drinking water, nutrition, and proper waste management

Under the programme, healthcare services will be strengthened from village level to the state level. The campaign focuses on both treatment and prevention of diseases by promoting sanitation, safe drinking water, nutrition, and proper waste management. It will also address communicable diseases, lifestyle illnesses, maternal and child health, and mental well-being.

All levels of local governance, including gram panchayats and district councils, will take part in the initiative. Awareness drives will be conducted to encourage villagers to adopt better health practices and maintain cleanliness.

To ensure smooth execution, committees have been formed at the state, district, and village levels. The state-level committee will monitor the overall progress, while implementation teams will carry out activities on the ground.

Villages will be assessed based on set health criteria, and those scoring above 70 per cent will be declared "Healthy Villages." These villages will receive recognition through certificates, mementoes, and financial rewards.

The state government has approved a budget of ₹80.75 crore for the campaign. Incentives will also be given to health institutions, with awards for top-performing hospitals, sub-health centres, and primary health centres at both district and state levels to encourage better performance.

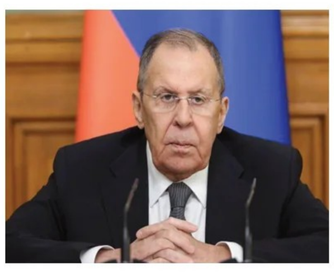
Russian Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov will visit India in May to attend the BRICS meeting and hold key bilateral talks with Indian leaders

Lavrov to visit India for BRICS Meet

NEW DELHI

Sergey Lavrov will visit India on May 14 and 15 to attend the BRICS Foreign Ministers' Meeting. The visit comes as India holds the BRICS presidency for 2026, with discussions expected to shape key outcomes for the upcoming summit.

According to Russian Deputy Foreign Minister Andrey Rudenko, the meeting will help decide the framework and direction of final documents to be presented during the summit. Alongside the multilateral event, Lavrov is also expected to hold bilateral talks with S. Jaishankar and other senior Indian officials.



BRICS, formed in 2006, originally included Brazil, Russia, India and China, with South Africa joining in 2011. The group has expanded in recent years, with countries like Egypt, Iran, the UAE and Ethiopia becoming full members in 2024, followed by Indonesia in 2025. Several other nations have also joined as partners.

Earlier, Lavrov highlighted the strong ties between India and Russia, describing the relationship as a time-tested partnership based on trust and mutual respect. He expressed hope for continued high-level engagement, including a possible visit by Narendra Modi to Russia in 2026.

The visit follows Russian President Vladimir Putin's trip to India in late 2025, which strengthened strategic cooperation between the two nations. Bilateral trade reached around $60 billion in 2025, with both sides aiming to increase it to $100 billion by 2030 through deeper cooperation in trade, technology and connectivity projects.

Mamata alleges BJP plot to manipulate Bengal voter lists

KOLKATA

West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee has written to the Election Commission, alleging a conspiracy to tamper with voter lists ahead of the 2026 Assembly elections. She claimed BJP agents were submitting large numbers of fake Form 6 applications to include non-residents in the state's electoral rolls.

In her letter to the Chief Election Commissioner, Banerjee described the move as "voter hijacking" and accused the BJP of repeating tactics allegedly used in other states. She said thousands of fraudulent applications were being filed at the office of the Chief Electoral Officer in West Bengal and in several districts.

The Chief Minister also raised concerns over delays in processing genuine voter applications. She claimed that over 60 lakh valid applications are still pending, while authorities are allegedly fast-tracking suspicious bulk submissions. According to her, this goes against Supreme Court directions and threatens free and fair elections.

Banerjee urged the Election Commission to immediately stop the alleged exercise and ensure that no fake voters are added after the final electoral roll was published on February 28, 2026. She stressed the need for transparency and protection of voting rights.

In her communication, she said the reported actions, if true, would be illegal and unconstitutional. She also warned that people in the state are closely watching developments.

Earlier, Banerjee had criticised the BJP during a rally, accusing the party of creating unrest ahead of elections. She claimed such actions could affect social harmony and daily life in the state.

The BJP has not yet responded to the allegations. The Election Commission is also yet to issue an official statement on the matter.

'West Asia conflict may trigger inflation concerns in India'

NEW DELHI

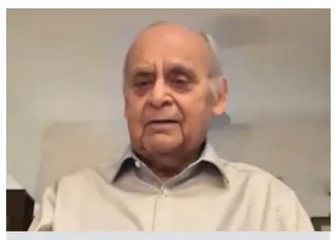
Former R&AW chief Vikram Sood has warned that the ongoing West Asia conflict could lead to inflation in India if the situation worsens. He said disruptions in oil and gas supplies from the Middle East may impact India within the next two to three months.

Sood explained that India depends heavily on oil from Arab nations and LNG from Qatar. Any disruption or rise in prices could increase inflation and create economic pressure. He noted that India also relies on the Strait of Hormuz for energy supplies, making the situation more sensitive.

He described the reported attack on Iran and killing of Ayatollah Ali Khamenei as unfortunate, stating that such actions could have been avoided. While maintaining that Israel remains India's ally, he said the conflict has placed India in a difficult position.

Sood also pointed to the growing involvement of the United States, saying it appears to have joined the conflict alongside Israel. He suggested that both Donald Trump and Benjamin Netanyahu may have misjudged Iran's response, as the situation continues to escalate.

He added that the conflict is expanding, with increased military deployments raising concerns about a prolonged war. There are mixed views on whether the US and Israel are aligned on extending the conflict or seeking a quick resolution. Meanwhile, US officials have indicated a possible timeline for ongoing military operations, while also stressing diplomatic efforts. Experts believe that any prolonged disruption in the region could directly affect global energy markets and India's economy, making the situation a serious concern for policymakers.



'PAK JUST OFFERING A VENUE'

Former R&AW chief Vikram Sood said Pakistan is not mediating US-Iran talks but only offering a venue. He questioned Islamabad's neutrality and doubted Iran's full trust due to past sectarian tensions. Pakistan's envoy Rizwan Saeed Sheikh said efforts are ongoing but complex due to conflict conditions. Meanwhile, Donald Trump claimed indirect talks via Pakistani channels are making progress.

Vijayan denies SDPI link, reaffirms secular stand

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

Kerala Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan on Tuesday rejected allegations that the ruling Left Democratic Front (LDF) sought support from the Social Democratic Party of India (SDPI) for the April 9 Assembly elections, calling the claims "baseless."

Vijayan said neither the LDF nor any of its candidates had approached the SDPI for backing, including in the key Nemom constituency. He clarified that the front has never taken a position seeking support from outside its alliance. Referring to LDF candidate V Sivankutty, he added that no such request was made at the local level either.

The SDPI is widely known as the political wing of the now-banned Popular Front of India. Responding to questions about SDPI's declared support in Nemom, where the LDF is in a tight contest with the BJP, Vijayan maintained that any such support was neither requested nor part of any agreement.

He accused the Congress-led Opposition of trying to create confusion among voters by raising the issue. Vijayan recalled that during the 2021 Assembly elections, the political context in Nemom was different, with the LDF aiming to defeat the BJP in its only Assembly seat in Kerala.

The Chief Minister said some voters may have independently supported the LDF to defeat the BJP, but this should not be seen as a formal alliance. He stressed that the LDF remains committed to secular values and has never aligned with communal forces.

Reaffirming his government's stance, Vijayan said both majority and minority communalism are unacceptable, adding that Kerala has remained free of communal riots in the past decade due to consistent policies against divisive politics.

Marandi seeks CBI probe into Jharkhand liquor scam

RANCHI

Leader of Opposition Babulal Marandi on Tuesday met Governor Santosh Kumar Gangwar and demanded a CBI probe into the alleged liquor scam in the state, which he claimed has crossed ₹750 crore.

In a memorandum, Marandi accused the Anti-Corruption Bureau of failing to conduct a fair investigation and alleged that it was shielding those involved. He said changes in the excise policy in 2022 favoured a select group, leading to major revenue losses.

He further claimed that although arrests were made, the agency failed to file charge sheets within 90 days, allowing several accused to secure bail. Among those arrested were senior officials, including former Excise Secretary Vinay Kumar Chaubey and Joint Excise Commissioner Gajendra Singh.

Marandi alleged that even after several months, no charge sheet has been filed, resulting in most of the accused being released. He termed this delay as either negligence or possible collusion.

He also pointed to a businessman linked to the case who is reportedly absconding. Marandi urged the Governor to intervene, ensure speedy investigation, and recommend a CBI probe to bring those responsible to justice and restore public trust.

TRIBUTE TO FREEDOM FIGHTERS

Dhami declares open National Flag Memorial

CHAMPAWAT

Uttarakhand Chief Minister Pushkar Singh Dhami on Tuesday inaugurated a National Flag Memorial and participated in the 'Mukhya Sevak Samvad' programme in Champawat.

He hoisted the Tricolour, joined citizens in singing the national anthem, and paid tribute to freedom fighters.

A large number of residents and BJP workers attended the event. The Chief Minister interacted with people from different sections of society, listening to their views and suggestions during the Samvad programme. Earlier, Dhami travelled from Kashipur to Khatima by road, receiving a warm welcome at several places. Crowds gathered along the route in towns including Kashipur, Bajpur, Gadarpur, Rudrapur, Dineshpur, Kichha, and Sitarganj. People greeted him with flowers and enthusiastic support.

During his visit, the Chief Minister also offered prayers at the Mata Bal Sundari Temple. He prayed for the happiness, prosperity, and development of the state. He announced financial support from the Chaiti Mela fund for the beautification of the temple and development of surrounding areas.

Dhami also inaugurated a bhajan programme at the temple premises by lighting a ceremonial lamp. He said the government is committed to preserving cultural heritage while ensuring overall development across Uttarakhand.

Officials said the initiatives aim to strengthen public engagement and promote development in the region.

NO ENTRY FEE HIKE ON THE CARDS: SUKHU

SHIMLA

Himachal Pradesh Chief Minister Sukhvinder Singh Sukhu on Tuesday said the government may restore the earlier system of collecting entry fees separately, amid ongoing controversy over the issue.

Speaking in the Assembly, Sukhu said the state had earlier merged different charges, including toll tax, with FASTag for convenience. However, the government is now considering returning to the previous system where fees were collected separately. He added that a final decision will be taken soon. The Chief Minister made it clear that no increase has been made in any category of entry fee and alleged that confusion is being deliberately spread. He said misinformation about toll tax and entry fee has led to public concern and protests. Addressing the issue's inter-state aspect, Sukhu said he tried to contact Punjab Chief Minister regarding the matter but could not connect. He added that he has discussed the issue with Punjab Congress leaders Raja Warring and Partap Singh Bajwa.

Japan deploys its first long range counterstrike missiles

The deployment of long-range "counterstrike" missiles at two bases marks a historic shift in military policy, in response to growing global challenges

TOKYO

Japan's Defence Ministry announced that the long-range missiles with "counterstrike" capabilities have been put into service for the first time.

The deployment at two army bases marks a historic and controversial shift in the nation's military policy, which has focused strictly on self-defence since World War II.

One base in southwestern Japan now holds upgraded missiles capable of traveling 1,000 kilometers, reaching far beyond Japan's borders. A second base in central Japan has been equipped with high-speed gliding projectiles designed to defend islands. While the government argues these weapons will deter enemies, critics say they give Japan the ability to strike other countries first, potentially violating international law.

The move has sparked a wave of anger among local citizens. In Kumamoto, protesters gathered near the military gates with signs reading "No missiles needed." Many residents fear that housing such powerful weapons will turn their quiet neighborhoods into primary targets if a war breaks out. They have repeatedly asked the government for public meetings, but officials have yet to grant them.

In Tokyo, community leaders met with the Defence Ministry to demand a halt to the military expansion. They criticized Prime Minister Sanae Takaichi's administration for being secretive and avoiding transparency by citing "national security." Activists argue that building up such a massive arsenal without public consent is a dangerous path. Despite the government's firm stance, civic groups say they will continue to amplify their voices through protests and parliamentary questions.

China's PLA threatens US underwater dominance

China is dramatically modernising its submarine fleet, even though developments remain cloaked in secrecy; the USA has traditionally held a comfortable lead over China in terms of underwater warfare.

HONG KONG

China is rapidly modernizing its underwater arsenal, signaling a major push to end the United States' long-standing lead in undersea warfare.

By expanding its fleet of nuclear and conventional submarines and investing in "smart" ocean technology, the People's Liberation Army Navy (PLAN) is transforming into a formidable global force.

According to U.S. Navy intelligence, China's submarine fleet is expected to grow to 70 vessels by 2027 and potentially 80 by 2035. This expansion isn't just about numbers; it's about high-tech firepower. The PLAN is currently building advanced next-generation submarines, including the Type 096, designed to carry ballistic missiles with stealth capabilities that rival the world's best.

Tech leaps & strategic shifts

- World First: China has reportedly begun arming conventional submarines with hypersonic YJ-19 missiles, a move that significantly increases their strike range and speed.
- Mass Production: Massive investments in shipyard capacity now allow China to build multiple nuclear-powered submarines at the same time, a feat few nations can match.
- Undersea Networks: Beyond ships, China is deploying unmanned underwater vehicles (UUVs) and seabed sensors to create a "networked" surveillance web across the Indo-Pacific.

Despite these advances, experts say the U.S. still holds a critical "surveillance edge." Within the strategic First Island Chain, American systems are currently better at detecting Chinese movements during peacetime. However, Chinese officials are betting that their new stealth technology and unmanned systems will eventually "blind" U.S. sensors, giving the PLAN the freedom to operate undetected across the Pacific and beyond. For the first time in decades, the "silent service" of the deep is becoming a very loud part of the global power struggle.

India mourns death of Santokhi

PARAMARIBO

Suriname is in mourning following the sudden passing of its former President, Chandrikapersad Santokhi, at the age of 67. The news of his death has triggered a wave of tributes from world leaders, including Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who described Santokhi as a dear friend and a champion of the global Indian diaspora.

Santokhi, affectionately known as "Chan," led Suriname from 2020 to 2025. Before his presidency, he served as a police commissioner and justice minister, earning the nickname "The Sheriff" for his tough stance on crime. He famously investigated the 1982 political killings that had long haunted the nation, showing a deep commitment to justice and the rule of law. For India, Santokhi was more than just a foreign leader; he was a symbol of shared heritage. Born into an Indo-Surinamese family with roots in Bihar, he never forgot his origins.

Explosion kills 2 UN peacekeepers in Lebanon

BEIRUT

Two United Nations peacekeepers were killed and two others injured after an explosion struck their vehicle near Bani Hayyan in southern Lebanon, the UN Interim Force in Lebanon (UNIFIL) confirmed. This comes just a day after another UNIFIL personnel death in the region.

UNIFIL described the incident as tragic and called for the protection of all peacekeepers, stating, "No one should ever have to die serving the cause of peace." A third peacekeeper was severely injured, while a fourth sustained injuries. Investigations have been launched to determine the cause of the explosion.

The mission also urged all parties to respect international law and ensure the safety of UN personnel. Deliberate attacks on peacekeepers, it warned, could constitute serious violations and even war crimes under UN Security Council rules.

Moments before this, another UNIFIL peacekeeper was killed and a colleague critically injured after a projectile hit a UN position near Adchit Al Qusayr. The source of the attack remains unknown, and authorities are investigating both incidents.

The Israel Defense Forces (IDF) said it is reviewing reports of the two separate events to determine whether they were caused by Hezbollah activity or military operations in the area. The IDF emphasized that its operations target Hezbollah, not UN peacekeepers, the Lebanese army, or civilians, and cautioned against drawing immediate conclusions.

UNIFIL extended condolences to the families and colleagues of the fallen peacekeepers while expressing hope for the swift recovery of those injured. The incidents highlight the dangers faced by personnel in Lebanon's volatile south, underscoring the high human cost of ongoing regional tensions.

King Charles should meet Epstein victims: US lawmaker

WASHINGTON

A high-profile US Congressman has sent a powerful request to King Charles III ahead of his historic visit to America.

Representative Ro Khanna is urging the British monarch to sit down with survivors of the Jeffrey Epstein abuse scandal. The meeting would take place during the King's expected trip to address a joint meeting of Congress in late April.

Khanna, who is a leading voice for transparency in the Epstein files, believes this meeting is a vital step toward justice. He argues that hearing the stories of these survivors directly is the only way to hold a powerful global network accountable.

The Congressman pointed out that the scandal isn't just an American issue; Epstein's deep ties to British figures and institutions have raised serious questions about whether public trust was misused to hide wrongdoing.

The letter also highlights the frustration of US officials who have tried to get answers from UK figures like Prince Andrew and Peter Mandelson. Both have so far avoided testifying or cooperating with congressional inquiries. Khanna believes that if King Charles meets the victims, it would send a strong message of "transparency and seriousness."

By making this request, Khanna hopes the King will use his influence to help uncover the truth. He noted that the King himself has previously called for a "full and fair" investigation. Meeting the survivors would show the world that even the most powerful institutions are willing to listen to those they failed in the past.

Tibetan parliament sets rules for national symbols

DHARAMSHALA

The Tibetan Parliament-in-Exile concluded a historic session, passing a significant budget and adopting formal rules to protect and standardize Tibet's national symbols.

For the first time, the 17th Parliament has established official guidelines for the use of the Tibetan national flag, emblem, and anthem to ensure they are treated with uniform respect worldwide.

During the session in Himachal Pradesh, lawmakers approved a budget of 3,475 million rupees to fund the government-in-exile's operations for the coming year. Beyond the numbers, the focus remained on cultural identity. Parliamentarians noted that while the Tibetan flag and emblem have existed for over a thousand years, they previously lacked the legislative backing now provided. These new rules aim to foster a sense of pride and consistency among the global Tibetan community.

The Parliament also took a firm stand against international pressure, passing a resolution that strongly condemned China's "ethnic unity law." Tibetan leaders described the law as "genocidal" and a direct threat to their unique heritage and identity. They reaffirmed that Tibetans, whether living at home or in exile, would not accept laws imposed from the outside that undermine their rights.

Home Minister Dolma Gyari described the session as a "significant step" for the nation. By combining financial planning with new laws to preserve their heritage, the Parliament signaled its continued resolve to protect Tibetan culture.

Israel approves death penalty for Palestinians

TEL AVIV

Israel's Parliament, the Knesset, passed a law imposing the death penalty on West Bank Palestinians convicted of terrorist attacks, in a 62-47 vote. Supported by National Security Minister Itamar Ben Gvir, the law allows executions within 90 days and removes appeal rights.

Only Palestinians in military courts are affected, while Israeli citizens remain under civilian law. The legislation drew strong condemnation from the European Union, United Nations, and Palestinian authorities, who called it discriminatory and inhumane. Critics warn it violates.

COVID VIGILANCE

17 Covid cases in single week puts Hanoi on high alert

HANOI

Health officials in Vietnam's capital are calling for renewed vigilance as COVID-19 cases show a slight upward trend. Hanoi has recorded 29 infections since the start of the year, according to local reports.

While no deaths have been reported, a recent jump from three to 17 cases in a single week has put authorities on guard.

The Hanoi Centre for Disease Control is currently monitoring a variant known as BA.3.2. While the World Health Organization (WHO) warns that this strain shows some ability to escape immune systems in lab tests, local doctors have advised the public not to panic. Additionally, scientists are keeping a close eye on a newly identified variant informally named "Cicada," which has appeared in small clusters across various regions.

Most people infected with the virus experience mild symptoms, but the elderly and those with health conditions like diabetes or heart disease remain at high risk. To stay safe, the local health department urges residents to wear masks in crowded or enclosed spaces and to disinfect their hands regularly.

The virus spreads through small liquid particles when people cough, sneeze, or even speak. Experts emphasize that being well-informed is the best defense. They recommend staying at least one meter away from others and self-isolating if you feel unwell. By following these simple steps and keeping up with vaccinations, the community can help slow the spread and protect those who are most vulnerable to serious illness.

Football stars spark global chess boom with growing obsession

Premier League icons embrace chess, driving surge in popularity among youth

LONDON

A growing fascination with chess among football's biggest names is fuelling a global surge in the game's popularity, with stars like Erling Haaland and Mohamed Salah leading the trend.

From dressing rooms to downtime at home, elite footballers are increasingly turning to chess as a mental challenge and relaxation tool. Haaland's passion has gone a step further, with the Manchester City striker investing in a new global chess tour aimed at capitalising on the game's rising cultural appeal.

Salah, meanwhile, has openly described himself as "addicted" to chess, regularly playing fast-paced online formats under anonymous profiles. England captain Harry Kane, along with Trent Alexander-Arnold and Anthony Gordon, are also among those embracing the board game.

The crossover extends beyond England, with players like Martin Odegaard and Eberechi Eze showing keen interest, the latter even winning an amateur tournament in 2025. Globally, stars such as Antoine Griezmann and Dani Carvajal are also avid players.

Chess legend Magnus Carlsen, a well-known football fan, has played a key role in bridging the two worlds. His encounters with footballers, including a quick victory over Alexander-Arnold, have added to the buzz surrounding the crossover.

The similarities between the two disciplines are increasingly recognised. Both demand strategic thinking, anticipation and quick decision-making under pressure. "You have to think several moves ahead," Haaland noted, highlighting parallels between controlling a football match and dominating a chessboard.

The boom is also being driven by digital platforms, with online chess apps making the game more accessible than ever. According to International Chess Federation, over 1.5 billion people now have a chess app on their phones, a number that surged during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Cultural influences, including the success of The Queen's Gambit, have further modernised chess's image, attracting younger audiences worldwide. While football remains their primary passion, many players view chess as a way to sharpen the mind and unwind. As Kane put it, the game offers a rare mental escape—one that is now re-shaping chess's global appeal.

Italy turns to youth reform to revive football fortunes ahead of World Cup

MILAN

Italian Football Federation has unveiled an ambitious youth development plan aimed at reviving Italian football, as the national team faces the real prospect of missing a third consecutive FIFA World Cup.

With the Italy national football team preparing for a crucial playoff against Bosnia and Herzegovina, concerns over declining standards have prompted urgent reforms. Once home to legends like Alessandro Del Piero, Andrea Pirlo, Fabio Cannavaro and Francesco Totti, Italy has struggled to produce world-class talent in recent years.

The sense of decline has been deepened by poor performances from Italian clubs in European competitions and the simultaneous success of the country in other sports. Tennis star Jannik Sinner, MotoGP leader Marco Bezzecchi and skier Federica Brignone have all brought global acclaim, highlighting football's relative stagnation.

To address the issue, the federation plans to introduce free online coaching courses and deploy technical staff to clubs nationwide. The pilot phase is expected to begin by October, focusing initially on teams in Serie D, Italy's fourth tier.

A key concern is the decline of informal street football and the rising costs of organised training, which limit access for children from lower-income backgrounds. The FIGC is collaborating with local authorities to create more public spaces for free play and increase overall participation.

Officials believe the reform must be systemic and inclusive to succeed. With time running out before another potential World Cup absence, Italy is betting on its youth to restore the nation's footballing legacy.

FIGC launches grassroots overhaul as Azzurri seek return to global stage

FIGC is focusing on grassroots transformation, targeting nearly 700,000 young players aged between five and 15. The initiative aims to standardise coaching methods, improve technical development and increase access to the sport.

Former World Cup winner Simone Perrotta, now involved in the project, stressed the importance of early coaching. "Every national team player starts at a local club. Coaches must be trained to develop talent properly," he said.

Fresh dispute erupts as officials, committee chief trade charges over conduct

AIFF row deepens with allegations, counter-claims over ISL entry

CHENNAI

The All India Football Federation has once again been drawn into controversy after a war of words broke out between its top officials and women's committee chairperson Valanka Alemao over alleged misconduct and governance issues.

In a letter addressed to the Executive Committee, Alemao accused AIFF president Kalyan Chaubey, vice-president NA Haris and deputy secretary general M Satyanarayan of intimidation and making "disrespectful" remarks during a recent meeting in New Delhi. She alleged that her concerns regarding procedural irregularities were repeatedly dismissed and that attempts were made to suppress her voice.

"I felt deeply prejudiced," Alemao stated, claiming she was targeted throughout the meeting and subjected to unacceptable conduct.

However, the AIFF strongly rejected the allegations, describing them as an "outburst of frustration." In its response, the federation accused Alemao of exerting undue pressure to secure a place for Churchill Brothers in the Indian Super League through what it termed a "backdoor entry."

According to the AIFF, Alemao pushed for multiple emergency Executive Committee meetings to reconsider the club's inclusion. The federation said these attempts were unsuccessful due to lack of quorum or rejection by members, and added that even existing ISL clubs opposed the proposal on merit grounds.

The dispute is rooted in a larger controversy over league promotion. Churchill Brothers were initially declared winners of the I-League and set for promotion, but the decision was overturned by the Court of Arbitration for Sport following an appeal by Inter Kashi, who were subsequently awarded the title and ISL berth.

Escalating the matter, Alemao has reportedly taken her complaint to the FIFA ethics and women's football committees, seeking an independent review.

The latest episode adds to ongoing concerns about governance and transparency within Indian football, even as stakeholders attempt to stabilise the domestic calendar and ensure the smooth conduct of competitions.

Vaishali salvages draw after tense battle with Divya

CHENNAI

R Vaishali showed remarkable resilience to escape with a draw against compatriot Divya Deshmukh in a gripping all-Indian encounter in the second round of the FIDE Women's Candidates Tournament in Cyprus.

Vaishali appeared to be heading towards defeat after a costly middlegame blunder left her position vulnerable. Deshmukh, playing with the white pieces, capitalised on the error and seized a crucial pawn advantage, putting her firmly in control of the contest.

However, the tide turned dramatically in the closing stages as both players came under severe time pressure. With less than 90 seconds remaining before the time control, accuracy became difficult to maintain. Deshmukh missed a key opportunity when she opted for 37.Qg3 instead of the more precise continuation, allowing Vaishali a lifeline.

Sensing the shift, Vaishali responded with a sequence of precise and resourceful moves to stabilise her position. Her defensive play under pressure drew praise, as she managed to neutralise the advantage and steer the game towards a balanced endgame. The players eventually agreed to a draw, sharing the points after an intense battle.

The result highlighted Vaishali's fighting spirit and composure, particularly in a tournament of such high stakes where every half-point can prove decisive.

In the open section, R Praggnanandhaa followed up his opening-round victory with a solid draw against China's Wei Yi. Playing with the black pieces, Praggnanandhaa managed to create some chances but was unable to convert them into a tangible advantage, allowing his opponent to equalise.

Other matches in the round also ended in draws, underlining the closely contested nature of the tournament. With top players evenly matched, early rounds have seen cautious yet competitive play.

As the Candidates tournament progresses, both Vaishali and Praggnanandhaa will look to build momentum and stay in contention for a shot at the world title, with consistency and nerve likely to play a crucial role in determining the eventual challengers.

33 sexual harassment complaints reported against SAI staff, coaches

CHENNAI

The Sports Authority of India has recorded 33 complaints of sexual harassment against its staff and coaches over the past decade, the government informed Parliament, highlighting concerns over athlete safety and institutional accountability.

Responding to questions in the Lok Sabha, Union Sports Minister Mansukh Mandaviya said that eight complaints were filed against administrative staff, while 25 cases involved coaches during the last ten years. The data was shared following queries raised by Members of Parliament seeking details on complaints across sports institutions.

According to the ministry, disciplinary action varied across cases. Among administrative staff, one individual faced a major penalty involving permanent withholding of full gratuity under pension rules, while the remaining cases were closed without punitive action. No complaints were reported against officials directly under the sports ministry.

In contrast, action against coaches was more stringent. Two coaches were terminated, while six faced suspension. Additionally, six minor penalties were imposed. The ministry also noted that appeals were filed in eight cases involving coaches, either by complainants or the accused, indicating ongoing disputes over inquiry outcomes.

The issue of harassment in sports institutions has gained attention in recent years, with athletes increasingly coming forward to report misconduct. The government reiterated that safeguards are in place under the Sexual Harassment of Women at Workplace Act 2013, which mandates all recognised National Sports Federations to establish Internal Complaints Committees (ICCs) to address such grievances.

The ministry stated that all federations under its purview have complied with the requirement of setting up ICCs to ensure timely redressal of complaints and adherence to workplace safety norms.

Meanwhile, in a separate reply, the government said that a proposed scheme to promote sports goods manufacturing in India is yet to be finalised. The initiative aims to strengthen domestic production, foster innovation and enhance global competitiveness, but will be implemented only after consultations with stakeholders.

The disclosures underline the need for stronger monitoring mechanisms and preventive measures to ensure a safe environment for athletes and support staff across the country's sporting ecosystem.

Las Vegas to host Super Bowl again in 2029

LAS VEGAS

Super Bowl LXIII will return to Las Vegas, with National Football League owners unanimously voting to award the 2029 showpiece to the city's Allegiant Stadium.

The decision marks the second time Las Vegas will host the Super Bowl, following the success of Super Bowl LVIII, which showcased the city's ability to stage one of the world's biggest sporting spectacles. The NFL had long been cautious about bringing its marquee event to a gambling hub, but that stance has softened in recent years. NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell welcomed the move, citing the city's vibrant atmosphere and proven track record. He said Las Vegas delivered an "incredible experience" during its first Super Bowl and expressed confidence that the 2029 edition would raise the bar even further.

The return underscores Las Vegas's growing status as a global sports destination. Since the relocation of the Las Vegas Raiders in 2020, the city has rapidly expanded its sporting footprint, hosting major events such as the NFL Draft and high-profile boxing and entertainment spectacles.

Allegiant Stadium, located near the iconic Las Vegas Strip, has been central to this transformation. Its accessibility and proximity to hotels and entertainment venues make it an ideal host for large-scale events, with most Super Bowl week activities held within a compact area. Looking ahead, the 2029 Super Bowl will be part of a packed sporting calendar for the city. The College Football Playoff National Championship is scheduled there in 2027, followed by the NCAA Final Four in 2028. Additionally, a new Major League Baseball team is expected to begin play in Las Vegas around the same time, while discussions continue over a potential NBA expansion franchise.

Calls grow to include Sooryavanshi in India's England tour squad

MUMBAI

Former England captain Michael Vaughan has urged the Board of Control for Cricket in India to include teenage sensation Vaibhav Sooryavanshi in India's upcoming white-ball tour of England following his explosive start in the Indian Premier League 2026.

The 15-year-old prodigy made headlines with a stunning knock for Rajasthan Royals, smashing 52 off just 17 balls to guide his side to an emphatic eight-wicket win over Chennai Super Kings. Chasing a modest 128, Rajasthan cruised to victory in just 12.1 overs, with Sooryavanshi's fearless batting taking centre stage.

Impressed by the youngster's composure and stroke-play, Vaughan suggested that India should expose him early to the international environment. While acknowledging that immediate selection in the playing XI may not be necessary, he emphasised the value of integrating him into the senior setup.

"Get him on that tour, let him experience the environment," Vaughan said, adding that exposure to the national team setup could accelerate the youngster's development. He also questioned eligibility norms for a player of his age but maintained that Sooryavanshi has the talent to compete at the highest level.

The innings has further strengthened the growing buzz around the Bihar-born batter, who has rapidly emerged as one of the most exciting young prospects in Indian cricket. His ability to dominate bowlers with aggressive strokeplay at such a young age has drawn widespread attention.

Former India cricketer Mohammad Kaif also revised his earlier stance on the youngster. Having previously cautioned against premature hype, Kaif now believes Sooryavanshi is ready for the next step. He praised the teenager's match-winning ability and entertainment value, noting his maturity despite limited experience.

India signs deal for indigenous mountain radars

New Delhi

The Ministry of Defence has signed a Rs 1,950 crore contract with Bharat Electronics Limited to supply two advanced mountain radars for the Indian Air Force. The deal supports the Make in India and Aatmanirbhar Bharat initiatives, focusing on local design and production. Developed by a DRDO laboratory, the radar systems will improve surveillance in difficult mountainous areas. Officials said the move will strengthen air defence and reduce dependence on foreign equipment. The project is also expected to boost the domestic defence industry and promote technological growth within the country's expanding security and manufacturing ecosystem.

Grab raises fuel surcharge amid price volatility

Singapore

Ride-hailing company Grab will increase its fuel surcharge to SGD 0.90 per trip from April 7 to May 31, citing rising global fuel prices. The move comes as oil costs remain unstable due to ongoing geopolitical tensions, impacting transport services across the region. The surcharge is meant to help drivers cope with higher operating expenses. Earlier, the company had also introduced incentives and fuel support measures for drivers. Industry observers say such steps are becoming common as transport firms adjust to fluctuating energy prices, which continue to affect fares and overall commuting costs in Singapore.

India's data hunger hits new record highs

India's mobile data consumption hit 31 GB monthly, driven by 5G expansion and a surge in high-quality video streaming.

NEW DELHI

India is officially more connected than ever. A new report released on Monday shows that the average person in India now uses over 31 GB of mobile data every single month.

This massive jump in internet use is being driven by a love for high-quality videos, online gaming, and the rapid spread of 5G technology across the nation.

Over the last five years, data usage has grown steadily. Experts from Nokia, who published the findings, noted that 5G is no longer just for people in big cities. While metros still lead the way, families in smaller towns are quickly catching up. In fact, nearly half of all mobile traffic in the country now travels through 5G networks, which offer much faster speeds than the older 4G systems.

It isn't just about faster speeds; it is about what people are doing online. From streaming movies in crystal-clear 4K to using new AI tools, Indians are finding more reasons to stay logged in. The report also highlighted that most new phones bought today are 5G-ready, making it easier for everyone to join the digital wave. Looking toward the future, the trend shows no signs of slowing down. With more people using smart apps and immersive digital tools, the demand for data will only rise. Predictions suggest that India could have over one billion 5G users by the year 2031. For now, India remains one of the world's biggest and fastest-growing digital hubs.

Middle East tensions push Won to record low

SEOUL

South Korea's currency, the won, plummeted to a 17-year low yesterday as fears of a widening war in the Middle East rattled global markets. The currency dropped sharply to 1,530.1 won against the US dollar, marking its weakest level since the global financial crisis of 2009.

The economic slide is being fueled by a dangerous mix of rising oil prices and geopolitical "sabre-rattling." Recent threats by U.S. President Donald Trump to target Iranian oil hubs have sent crude prices soaring above $100 a barrel. Because South Korea imports nearly all of its energy, these high prices force the country to spend more US dollars, putting immense pressure on the local currency.

Adding to the drama, Iran has suggested it might charge a "toll" for ships passing through the Strait of Hormuz, a vital route for world oil. This uncertainty has scared international investors, who are pulling their money out of the Korean stock market at a record pace. Yesterday alone, foreign investors sold off over 3.8 trillion won worth of shares, causing the KOSPI stock index to dive more than 4 percent.

South Korea's central bank is now on high alert. Officials stated they are monitoring the situation closely and are prepared to step in if the won't slide becomes too "one-sided." For now, the combination of expensive fuel and fleeing investors has left the nation's economy facing its toughest challenge in nearly two decades.

Google unveils 2026 AI startup accelerator India

NEW DELHI

Tech giant Google opened doors for its 2026 "Startups Accelerator" in India. This three-month program is designed specifically to help homegrown artificial intelligence companies grow. The best part for young businesses? Google provides this high-level support without taking any ownership or "equity" in the startups.

The 2026 program is looking for teams working on the next big things in AI, such as "Physical AI" and specialized models built specifically for India's unique challenges. Whether a startup is just starting with "Seed" funding or growing into "Series A," they can apply until April 19. Those selected will get to work directly with Google's most advanced tools, including Gemini and specialized chips designed for heavy data processing.

Participants won't just get tools; they will get teachers. Experts from Google DeepMind, Cloud, and Android will provide one-on-one mentorship. The goal is to move beyond simple tech experiments and create real-world tools that change how industries work.

Previous success stories prove the program works. One past participant, Dview, saw its revenue jump four times, while another, AiSteth, created a smart stethoscope that has already screened 75,000 patients. From healthcare to climate change, these startups are solving big problems.

The journey begins this June with a week-long bootcamp in Bengaluru, the heart of India's tech scene. It will wrap up in October with a "Demo Day," where founders show off their progress to the world. It is a golden opportunity for India's brightest minds to scale up.

AI data skills drive India's future jobs

NEW DELHI: A new report highlights that artificial intelligence, cybersecurity, and data skills will be the most important abilities in India over the next three to five years.

The study by NIIT Limited and YouGov shows strong demand across students, employees, and employers.

Recruiters say mid-career professionals face the biggest shortage, even as many companies try to hire them. Early-career workers feel more confident than students in key tech areas, while senior leaders report the highest confidence overall.

About 86 percent of employers believe they can find skilled talent, thanks to training programs and partnerships with colleges. Many companies have also increased learning budgets and offer internships.

The report adds that flexible work expectations differ, with more students preferring hybrid roles than companies currently provide.

Golden touch powers India's credit boom

NEW DELHI

Families across India are increasingly turning to their jewelry boxes to fund their dreams. A new report released reveals that gold loans have officially become the star of the country's lending market.

These loans now make up a staggering 36 percent of all retail borrowing by volume and nearly 40 percent by total value.

As gold prices climb, more people are "unlocking" the hidden wealth in their lockers. The average loan amount has jumped significantly over the last two years, reaching around Rs 1.9 lakh by late 2025. This shift shows that gold is no longer just a family heirloom; it is a powerful financial tool used by everyone from farmers to city professionals.

While gold loans were once most popular in Southern India, the trend is moving north and west. States like Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, and Rajasthan are seeing a massive spike in demand. Interestingly, these loans are no longer seen as a last resort. More "prime" customers—those with high credit scores—are choosing gold loans because they are secure and easy to manage.

The report also highlights that credit health in India is improving, even as borrowing rises in rural and semi-urban areas. These regions now account for over half of all borrowers. Whether it is for a new business or a personal milestone, India's trust in gold remains the backbone of the economy. As long as gold values stay high, this golden era of credit looks set to continue.

India's gold loan market is booming, now representing 36% of retail credit volume as rising prices help families unlock wealth for mainstream financial needs.

India's rural housing scheme has completed 2.99 crore homes, utilizing AI and face-scanning technology to ensure transparency and efficiency.

Millions of rural families gain new homes

NEW DELHI

The dream of owning a sturdy house has become a reality for nearly three crore rural families across India.

The government recently announced that out of the 4.15 crore homes planned under the rural housing scheme, 2.99 crore are already finished. This massive effort is part of a mission to build nearly five crore homes by 2029.

To make sure the money reaches the right people, the government has sent over ₹4 lakh crore directly into the bank accounts of those building their homes. This "beneficiary-led" approach means families take charge of their own construction, ensuring they have a personal stake in their new lives.

What makes this project special is the use of high-tech tools to stop fraud. For the first time, artificial intelligence (AI) and face-scanning technology are being used to verify that every house is real. The system looks at digital photos of walls, roofs, and windows to confirm completion before final payments are made. Advanced security features even check for "eye-blinks" to prove that the person being verified is actually there in person.

Beyond just four walls, these homes are being connected to clean water, electricity, and solar power through other government programs. This teamwork between different departments ensures that a new house isn't just a building, but a complete home with modern facilities. By combining human effort with smart technology, the country is steadily closing the housing gap for its rural citizens.

IMF grants Pakistan tiny relief on fuel

NEW DELHI

The International Monetary Fund (IMF) has offered Pakistan a small amount of breathing room regarding fuel prices, but experts warn the situation is a dangerous "stress test." According to a new report, the IMF is allowing the Pakistani government to briefly shield its citizens from rising oil costs, though this move is being called economically unsustainable in the long run.

The ongoing conflict in the Middle East has sent global energy prices soaring, creating a massive headache for Pakistan's fragile economy. Usually, the IMF demands strict price hikes to save money. However, in a rare show of flexibility, the international lender is temporarily tolerating local fuel subsidies. This "pragmatic" shift aims to prevent immediate social unrest, but it comes with a major catch: Pakistan must still meet its overall savings targets and keep its budget under control.

The timing is incredibly difficult. Just as Pakistan was starting to get inflation under control and stabilize its currency, this new energy crisis threatened to ruin that progress. The IMF has warned that these "distortions" in energy prices must eventually be fixed. They are pushing for structural reforms to ensure the country doesn't rely on expensive, untargeted subsidies forever.

For Pakistan, the situation is a delicate balancing act. The government must protect its people from poverty while satisfying international lenders to keep the economy afloat. As tensions rise near the Strait of Hormuz, a key route for oil, the risk of high inflation remains a dark cloud over the nation's future.

PAKISTAN POVERTY LEVELS FAR HIGHER THAN REPORTED

NEW DELHI: A new report by the Social Policy and Development Centre reveals that poverty in Pakistan has reached 43.5 percent, much higher than official estimates of 28.9 percent by the Pakistan Bureau of Statistics.

The study shows urban areas are hit harder, with poverty rising faster in cities than villages. Experts say the gap of 14.6 percent is due to different calculation methods. Government data uses price trends that may not reflect real costs for poor families.

In contrast, the SPDC measures food needs and daily calorie intake, giving a clearer picture of basic living costs. The report estimates millions have fallen into poverty in recent years.

Researchers warn that living conditions are worsening across the country and stress the need for more accurate data to guide policies and support struggling communities effectively.

India launches major push for AI skills

NEW DELHI

India is taking a massive leap toward a high-tech future by launching new programs to boost Artificial Intelligence (AI) and digital content. The government's latest plan focuses on training a workforce that is ready for the "AI era" while making it easier for every citizen to access modern digital services.

A key part of this mission is a national training program that will teach 15,000 creators and media professionals how to use advanced AI tools. In partnership with Google and YouTube, the initiative will cover "generative AI" and "prompting," giving people the skills needed to stay competitive in a changing world. To give these creators a home, a new platform called MyWAVES has been launched, allowing users to share videos and content in many different languages.

The government is also making TV simpler and cheaper. New television sets will now come with built-in satellite tools, meaning families—especially in remote villages—no longer need to buy separate set-top boxes to watch their favorite shows.

THAR COAL GAP

Broken promises leave Thar coal region poor

KARACHI

In 2019, top leaders in Sindh promised that every rupee earned from the massive Thar Coal project would go back into developing the Tharparkar district.

Fast forward to 2026, and those bold words have yet to turn into reality for the local people. A new report reveals a heartbreaking gap between the project's massive profits and the area's deep poverty.

Between 2023 and 2025, the provincial government collected an estimated 50 billion Pakistani rupees in royalties from coal extraction. Despite this huge windfall, the actual money spent on the district is just a tiny fraction of what was earned. While officials point to new roads and schools, the facts on the ground tell a different story.

Tharparkar remains one of the poorest places in Pakistan, with nearly 77 percent of its people living in poverty.

The problem isn't just a lack of money; it is a lack of a plan. Currently, there is no legal system or law that forces the government to move these coal profits into local development funds. Without a strict rule in place, the billions earned from the land stay in provincial accounts rather than helping the thirsty, marginalized communities living right above the coal mines.

For the residents of Tharparkar, the "black gold" beneath their feet has brought more dust than prosperity. Until the government creates a transparent, legally binding way to share the wealth, the promise of a better life remains nothing more than empty talk.

Ganguly backs BCCI, calls for wider distribution of Test venues

Former captain supports sharing Test matches beyond traditional cricket centres nationwide

KOLKATA

Sourav Ganguly has backed the Board of Control for Cricket in India for distributing Test matches across multiple venues, saying the traditional format should not remain confined to a few historic centres.

The former India captain's remarks come after the BCCI omitted iconic venues like Eden Gardens and Wankhede Stadium from the upcoming Border-Gavaskar Trophy against Australia, opting instead for cities such as Nagpur, Chennai, Guwahati, Ranchi and Ahmedabad.

Speaking in Kolkata, Ganguly said while he would always welcome more Tests at Eden Gardens, he understands the need to expand the game's reach. "It's always special to host big matches here, but the venue has already had its share of fixtures. The game must travel to other centres as well," he said.

He pointed out that several emerging venues now boast excellent infrastructure and are capable of hosting high-quality Test cricket. "It is encouraging to see matches being played in places like Guwahati and Ranchi. Stadiums across India have improved significantly," he added.

India's 2026–27 home season will be a busy one, featuring series against West Indies, Sri Lanka, Zimbabwe and Australia. While Kolkata and Mumbai will host limited-overs matches, newer venues continue to gain prominence in the Test calendar.

However, the move has sparked debate within the cricketing community. Former India spinner Venkatapathy Raju expressed nostalgia for the traditional rotation of five Test centres—Kolkata, Chennai, Delhi, Kanpur and Mumbai—arguing that these venues carry a unique legacy and atmosphere.

At the same event, Ganguly also revealed plans for a reunion of the iconic 2001 Test team at Eden Gardens. Reflecting on his career, he rated memorable Test victories in Kolkata, Chennai, Headingley and Adelaide above the famous 2002 NatWest Trophy win, reiterating that Test cricket remains the pinnacle of the sport.

CA clarifies Green's bowling absence after Rahane remark sparks debate

MUMBAI

Cricket Australia has clarified that Cameron Green is currently unable to bowl due to a managed back injury, following comments by Ajinkya Rahane that stirred speculation during the ongoing Indian Premier League 2026.

The clarification came after Rahane, leading Kolkata Knight Riders, deflected queries about Green's absence with the ball in their opening match against Mumbai Indians, saying, "Ask Cricket Australia." His remark triggered questions over the Australian all-rounder's fitness and availability.

In response, Cricket Australia stated that Green is dealing with a lower back issue that is being carefully managed. "He is currently rebuilding his bowling workload in India and is expected to return to bowling in around 10 to 12 days," a CA spokesperson said, adding that KKR management has been fully informed of the situation.

Green's bowling workload has been limited since undergoing surgery for a stress fracture, which kept him away from competitive bowling for nearly a year between September 2024 and October 2025. Even after returning, his contributions with the ball have remained minimal, with his last competitive outing coming earlier this year in a T20 World Cup match where he bowled just two overs.

KKR had invested heavily in Green, signing him for ₹25.20 crore at the auction, making him their marquee overseas acquisition.

However, his inability to bowl has affected the team's balance, particularly in their opening game at Wankhede Stadium, where they struggled to defend a total of 220.

Rahane acknowledged the challenge, admitting that the side is still searching for the right combination. He expressed hope that Green's return to bowling would provide more flexibility to the lineup.

Despite the setback, Rahane backed his relatively inexperienced bowling attack to improve, calling the match a "learning curve" as KKR look to regroup in the tournament.

Five penalty runs awarded as controversy erupts during tense PSL clash

Lahore Qalandars face penalty as Fakhar Zaman charged with ball-tampering

LAHORE

Controversy erupted in the Pakistan Super League after Fakhar Zaman of Lahore Qalandars was charged with ball-tampering during a crucial match against Karachi Kings at Gaddafi Stadium.

The incident occurred in the closing stages of the match when Karachi Kings required 14 runs off the final over. Umpires ruled that the condition of the ball had been unlawfully altered, resulting in five penalty runs being awarded to Karachi. The decision significantly shifted momentum, reducing the target and allowing the Kings to chase down the remaining runs with ease.

According to a PSL statement, Fakhar was found to have breached Article 41.3 of the playing conditions, which prohibits any action that changes the condition of the ball. The ball was subsequently replaced at the request of Karachi Kings before the final runs were completed.

However, Fakhar has denied the allegation. During a disciplinary hearing conducted by match referee Roshan Mahanama, the Pakistan international contested the charge, maintaining his innocence. The league confirmed that a follow-up hearing will take place within 48 hours, after which a final decision will be announced.

If found guilty, Fakhar could face sanctions ranging from fines to suspension, including the possibility of missing at least one PSL match. The franchise itself could also face penalties depending on the outcome of the investigation. Lahore Qalandars captain Shaheen Afridi said the team would review footage of the incident before drawing conclusions. "We will check the cameras and discuss it internally," he said after the match.

The episode has once again brought the spotlight on ball-tampering controversies in cricket, raising concerns over fair play and adherence to rules in high-pressure situations. With the league awaiting the referee's verdict, the incident has added an unexpected layer of drama to the ongoing PSL season.

Sinner downs Lehecka in Miami to seal historic 'Sunshine Double'

MIAMI

Jannik Sinner produced a dominant display to defeat Jiri Lehecka 6-4, 6-4 in a rain-disrupted final at the Miami Open, clinching the coveted 'Sunshine Double' without dropping a single set.

The Italian world number two showcased remarkable consistency and composure, winning an impressive 92 per cent of his first-serve points while saving all three break points he faced. The victory also extended his unbeaten run in ATP Masters 1000 matches without losing a set to 17.

The final at Hard Rock Stadium was repeatedly interrupted by rain, with play delayed for nearly 90 minutes on two occasions. Despite the disruptions, Sinner maintained his rhythm, even keeping himself engaged during breaks by casually juggling a football with his team.

Sinner made an early statement by breaking Lehecka for a 3-1 lead in the opening set and then relying on his powerful serve to close it out comfortably. The second set proved more competitive, with Lehecka, ranked 22nd in the world and playing his first Masters 1000 final, showing resilience by saving multiple break points and briefly taking a 4-3 lead.

However, Sinner's relentless pressure eventually paid off. He converted his sixth break-point opportunity of the set to edge ahead 5-4 before sealing the match with a composed forehand volley on championship point.

"This is something I never imagined," Sinner said after the match. "It's incredibly difficult to achieve, and I'm just really happy with the work we've put in."

With the win, Sinner becomes the first player since Roger Federer in 2017 to win back-to-back titles at Indian Wells and Miami, a feat famously known as the 'Sunshine Double'. He now joins an elite group that includes Novak Djokovic, Andre Agassi and Pete Sampras.

The triumph further cements Sinner's status as one of the sport's brightest stars and a leading force on the ATP Tour.

Naseem Shah fined heavily for post targeting Maryam Nawaz

LAHORE

Naseem Shah has been handed a record fine by the Pakistan Cricket Board for a controversial social media post targeting Maryam Nawaz during the ongoing Pakistan Super League. The fast bowler was fined $71,684, reportedly the largest financial penalty in Pakistan's cricket history, with local media suggesting it amounts to nearly eight months of his central contract salary. The disciplinary action followed a now-deleted post that appeared to criticise the special treatment accorded to Maryam Nawaz during her visit to Gaddafi Stadium for the PSL opener. In the post, Naseem had sarcastically questioned why the Punjab Chief Minister was being treated "like the Queen at Lord's," sparking immediate backlash. The remark came at a sensitive time when fans were barred from attending matches in Lahore and Karachi due to fuel conservation measures linked to escalating tensions in West Asia.

The PCB issued a show-cause notice to the pacer on March 27, shortly after the post surfaced. During subsequent disciplinary proceedings, Naseem offered an unconditional apology, which was taken into consideration before the penalty was imposed. In its statement, the board also revealed that Naseem had terminated his social media adviser, who has now been blacklisted from working with any player under PCB's jurisdiction. The move was seen as an attempt by the player to take corrective action and prevent further controversy.

Despite the apology, the PCB opted for a stringent penalty, underlining its zero-tolerance approach towards conduct that could bring the game or its stakeholders into disrepute. The incident has once again highlighted the growing scrutiny over athletes' social media activity and the potential consequences of public remarks involving political figures. Naseem, one of Pakistan's leading fast bowlers, now finds himself under intense spotlight as the PSL progresses, with the episode serving as a cautionary tale for players navigating the intersection of sport, politics and digital expression.

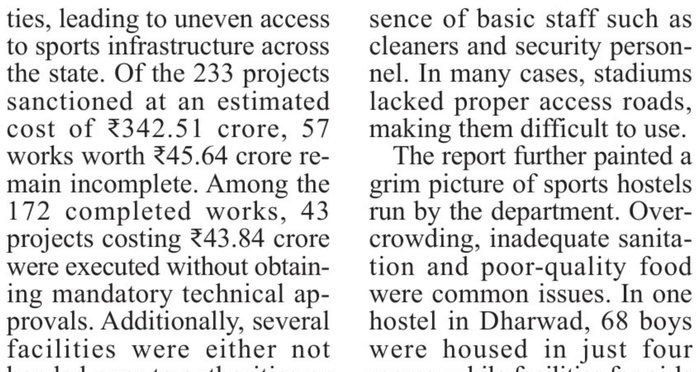
CAG flags poor planning, regional imbalance in Karnataka sports infrastructure

BENGALURU

A report by the Comptroller and Auditor General of India has exposed serious lapses in the development and maintenance of sports infrastructure across Karnataka, highlighting regional disparities, incomplete projects and poor living conditions for athletes.

The audit, covering 2019–2024, found that infrastructure development has been heavily skewed, with most districts receiving minimal funding. Out of 31 districts, 29 accounted for just 0–6 per cent of total expenditure, while districts such as Bidar, Dharwad, Kalaburagi, Ramanagara and Vijayanagara received no funds at all. In contrast, Bengaluru Urban and Mandya alone accounted for a disproportionate share of spending.

The report criticised the Department of Youth Empowerment and Sports for failing to ensure balanced growth and proper planning. It noted that authorities did not adequately identify or prioritise regions lacking basic facilities, leading to uneven access to sports infrastructure across the state. Of the 233 projects sanctioned at an estimated cost of ₹342.51 crore, 57 works worth ₹45.64 crore remain incomplete. Among the 172 completed works, 43 projects costing ₹43.84 crore were executed without obtaining mandatory technical approvals. Additionally, several facilities were either not handed over to authorities or not taken up at all.



The CAG also flagged poor maintenance and under-utilisation of existing facilities. Inspections across eight districts and 29 taluks revealed unhygienic conditions, waterlogging, lack of drainage, garbage accumulation and absence of basic staff such as cleaners and security personnel. In many cases, stadiums lacked proper access roads, making them difficult to use.

The report further painted a grim picture of sports hostels run by the department. Overcrowding, inadequate sanitation and poor-quality food were common issues. In one hostel in Dharwad, 68 boys were housed in just four rooms, while facilities for girls were also found to be insufficient and poorly maintained. The audit also highlighted the lack of gender-specific infrastructure, noting that despite recommendations, no adequate measures were taken to improve safety and participation for female athletes.
